WISCONSIN has no death penalty, and the people are divided as to the propriety of dispensing with capital punishment in all cases. Maine has the same law, but the legislature is reported to be favorable to a restoration of hanging as a legal punishment for murder.

The New York Tribune says Gov. Pattison begins badly. The New York Times declares his first acts are most disappointing, and repeats the declaration of the Philadelphia Times, which was his most vigorous supporter in the recent campaign, to the effect that he has committed political suicide. As these Republican organs kicked over the traces and did their best to defeat General Beaver, they should try and see what is good in Gov. Pattison before wholly condemning him. It may occur to these valiant papers that the suggestion of "political suicide" is too personal to themselves to be mentioned flippantly.

SISTER MARY PAUL, the Yankton nun whose marriage a few days ago attracted wide spread attention, seems to have been dissatisfied for a long time with her single blessedness. More than a year ago she wrote in a Milwaukee friend's album: "Love is all—the future is but a dream."

The clerk of the late Newell House at Milwaukee, by his own confession before the Coroner's inquest, believed the books and papers of his employer to be of more value than the lives of a hundred and fifty or more people which were intrusted to his care. He had twenty five minutes to warn them the night of the fire and might have given the alarm to every room in the house, but had "something more important to attend to." The man can scarcely be said who makes such a confession. The legend of Nero fiddling while Rome was burning is no longer an illustration of indifference while we have an hotel clerk who can find more important business than waking the inmates of a house that is in flames.

All the Conspirators Dead. A writer thus sums up the end of all those engaged in the assassination of President Lincoln.

Dr. Mudd, who died last week, was the last survivor of those who were convicted of the assassination conspiracy. Wilkes Booth was killed; Harriet, Payne, Atzerodt, and Mrs. Surratt executed in July, 1865, and Dr. Mudd, Arnold, McLaughlin and Spangler were sent to the Dry Tortugas, McLean died there, and Dr. Mudd, Arnold and Spangler were pardoned. Arnold died in Baltimore a few months after his release; Spangler died at Dr. Mudd's residence a year or so ago, and now Dr. Mudd's death closes the list of all who were supposed to be concerned in the conspiracy, excepting John H. Surratt, who was tried by the civil courts and escaped. Surratt is now a clerk in a mercantile house in Baltimore.

Calamity Jane. The Laramie Boomerang has this to say of a Wyoming lass: "A female named Calamity Jane, a character of 1877 and 1878 in Deadwood, who has been living on a ranch for two or three years, is again on the warpath. Her specialty is dexterity with a six shooter and a poker deck. She is a coquette who meets a foeman worthy of her steel, and will spare no effort to bring him to her feet, taking the risk of getting shared her self in the endeavor. And when she has him there, and his scalp, figuratively speaking, is firmly attached to her belt, she loses no opportunity of exhibiting her conquest to her fellow-laborers in the harvest field of flirtation. It is one of the most amusing pastimes of society, but those who go through it without singed wings are decidedly in the minority."

John Swinton on Lawyers.

In the business of subverting the liberties of our beloved country, I do not dread the soldier with his rifle, nor the conspirator or the demagogue, nor the king in his regalia, nor the cleric with his tongue, nor the editor with his quill, nor Satan with his horns, nor yet the millionaire with his millions, if they have but a fair field. The man to be dreaded in this republic is the shyster lawyer—legal machination is the thing of menace and danger. It is in this country especially that the people need to be on the alert against legal quibblers—here where they swarm as they do no where else on the globe, not only in courts, but in Legislatures and their lobbies and in every place of power and greatness. How often, when searching amid the ruins of popular liberty in the countries that once enjoyed them, do we come upon the tracks of the false lawyer? For what oppressor has not found a legal subterfuge? For what deed of guilt has not been ready to erect a legal bulwark? Do we not find him with a legal defense for any usurpation of every usurper, with a legal justification for any invasion of every birthright of man, with a legal quibble over every great popular franchise, with a legal glaze over every clear word of freedom, with legal trifling over every establishment of right, with a legal weapon for nullifying every victory of progress, with a legal Jimmy, as Major Haggerty lately said in the Assembly, to pry open every man's safe, with legal mechanism for tearing out every stone in the fabric of justice, or for razing every pillar in the edifice of wrong. Not a guilty deed has ever been perpetrated by power, not a base treason has ever been hatched against the commonwealth, not a device has ever been set for the subversion of any popular right, but the false lawyer has stood ready to uphold it with an armament of falsehood. He battered the twelve tables at Rome, he made of no effect the ten commandments of Moses, he stifled the genius of the Magna Charta, and he is now scuttling the Constitution of the United States.

The French Problem.

Inter-Ocean.

According to the estimates of our Paris correspondent only 2,000,000 of the 10,000,000 voters in France are genuine Republicans. Of the other 8,000,000 about 2,000,000 are Monarchists and Imperialists, and 6,000,000 are Republicans. Monarchists, or Imperialists, as circumstances make them or as political currents or self-interest may determine. So long as the Republicans are in the ascendant the floating or variable vote is with them, but should Republican Government lose public confidence 6,000,000 men waiting to see which way the cat would jump might easily be subjected to influences that would make them dangerous to the Republic.

On this theory it is not difficult to account for the uneasiness of the Republicans over the presence of the ex-Empress Eugenie in Paris. With Prince Jerome Napoleon in prison and his political adherents making political capital out of the circumstance, with the Bourbons in the South of France waving the white flag of the Old Monarchy, and a panic in financial circles; with the Chamber of Deputies quarreling over the proposition to banish the Orleanist Princes, and the Cabinet in a fair way to go to pieces on a similar question, it was a bad time for the ex-Empress to appear in Paris and occupy the rooms occupied by Louis Napoleon in 1848. Her presence was undesirable, and the President so informed her. She probably knew this as well as M. Grey, but awaited the notification for political reasons. She has now done her part to increase the public excitement which Monarchists and Imperialists hope will end in the overthrow of the Republic. But this crisis is not so threatening as was that of January, 1879, when the Republicans, under the leadership of Gambetta, compelled McMahon to resign, and crushed the plots of the Imperialists. What the Republicans mean now is a leader like Thiers or Gambetta, and they have scores of strong men in both Senate and Chambers.

Beer and Railway Building.

Century.

The consumption of beer in the camps of the railway builders is enormous. At Bismarck I saw an entire freight train of thirty cars laden with bottled beer from a Chicago brewery, bound for the town nearest the end of the track. The chief engineer of the construction force said that an average of one bottle for every tie laid was consumed, and that the tie and the beer cost the same—fifty cents. Thus the workmen pay as much for their drink as the company for one of the important elements of railway construction.

A VILLAIN GONE.

Hanging of Traughber at Taylorville To-Day.

The Crime for Which He Died.

1-pecuniary the RUEPUM DUN.

TAYLORVILLE, ILL., Jan. 26.

George W. Traughber was hung at 12:40 o'clock this p. m. to-day, in the jail at this place. Death was caused by strangulation. The execution was witnessed only by the persons permitted by law to be present. The gallows upon which he was hung was the same that did duty at Clinton last spring, when Patsey Devine was executed. Everything passed off quietly.

THE CRIME.

The crime which Traughber committed with his life was as atrocious, cold-blooded and unprovoked a murder as was ever committed. On the 28th day of October, 1881, Jas. McKinney, a peaceable and law-abiding citizen, respected by all who knew him, living in the northern part of the county, left his home in the afternoon to go in search of hands to aid him in carrying on the work of his farm, little dreaming when he bade his wife and babies good by that he would never again look into their loving faces. After securing the help he required, he started on his return home. When almost home he was overtaken by the two ruffians, who, without a word of warning, shot him down like a dog, robbing a wife of a loving husband, three small babies of an affectionate father, and making that happy and cheerful home dark and desolate.

Not returning home, his wife, thinking he was delayed on business, retired for the night, not apprehending any wrong and never dreaming of the terrible news the morning would bring. Mrs. McKinney arose early the next day and proceeded to do the chores around the house. On entering the stable she discovered the horse that he had ridden the day before. Seized with alarm and apprehension, and fearing that some accident had befallen him, she mounted the animal and rode down the lane, and before she had proceeded a mile she came upon the body of her husband lying in the road cold and stiff in death. The alarm was given immediately, and soon a crowd of neighbors assembled at the scene of the murder and a search was made to obtain some clew to the perpetrators of the heinous deed. Their efforts were crowned with success, and before noon of the 29th such a strong chain of circumstantial evidence was connected that George W. Traughber and Charles C. Myers were arrested as the murderers. Indigitation and excitement rose to fever heat, and it was with great difficulty that the officers saved them from being lynched by the exasperated mob. At the inquest, with the dead body of their victim before them, they testified that they were innocent, and knew nothing about it. They were indicted at the two terms of court succeeding and were granted continuances. At the last November term of court they petitioned for a continuance. This was denied. Traughber then withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty, and all of the evidence, and also their own statements, show that there was no provocation, but that they foully murdered the man simply to satisfy their thirst for blood.

DENVER, COLO., Jan. 25.—In the joint session vote for Senator to-day the Republican candidates received about the same number that they had in the open caucus of the previous night. Bowen created a sensation by rising to a question of privilege after the vote had been announced, and vehemently denouncing two of the local newspapers, the News and Republican, for having charged him with abusing Pitkin in an interview and betraying Tabor in the caucus, wherein the latter got twenty-four votes. His words were more wild and forcible than eloquent.

A citizen of Hilo, in the Sandwich Islands, says of the comet: "My theory is that it came from an overloaded sun, and that it was thrown into space. Now comes the question: What was this protuberance that was thrown into space? It is floating in space, seen and called the comet of the present day, and in due time, said comet will become a planet, and partake of what all other planets have, as the earth has. It is cooling as a comet will cool, and as the earth is and has been cooling. The lava flow that visited the district of Hilo about a year ago exhibited to the world the material that the sun, the comets and the planets are composed of."

A WONDERFUL NIGHT.

Nearly 80 at the Altar and 35 Converts at the Harrison Meeting.

Last night was a most wonderful time at the great religious revival at the First M. E. Church, in charge of Rev. Harrison. The room was packed full of people, who listened attentively to the extortation of the boy preacher, whose subject was, "Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting," from the 27th verse of the 5th chapter of Daniel. People in all parts of the vast congregation seemed deeply moved by the feeling appeal, and during the evening 57 seekers knelt about the altar. The penitents kept coming and going away smiling and shouting until as many as 35 professed conversion. Among the seekers were persons who are members of the Episcopal and Baptist churches, while a larger number do not belong to any denomination.

The meeting was pronounced the most wonderful in its results than any yet held. The total number of converts to date is 85, and last night was the commencement of the ninth week of the revival. On Sunday afternoon next a grand jubilee will be held at the church over 900 saved. Mr. Harrison specially desires that all young men in the city attend the young people's meeting this evening. Seats will be reserved for them at the revival service.

Ministrals To-Night.

Speaking of the Haverly minstrel troupe which is to give a performance at the opera house to-night, the Chicago Times said:

The first part introduced a stage full of burlesque, arranged on a platform of state from the footlights to the top of the stage. The "business" of the part was unusually entertaining, the jokes being less threadbare, and the songs, serious and comic, better than usual.

It concluded with some excellent jig dancing and an amusing climax, called "The New Year's Wedding." The specialities which followed were attractions as ever, and introducing other acts unusually excellent, and the extravaganz entitled "Her Majesty's Opera," with which the performance concluded, was an exceedingly amusing burlesque on grand opera.

Admission, 35, 50 and 75 cents.

The grand jury has been quite busy this week investigating complaints brought before them, and nine true bills have been found. One of them it is intimated implicates a foreign doctor and a runaway young man in a case similar to the one now on trial in court. The grand jury reached a final adjournment this afternoon.

The "Old Shipmates" performance at the opera house attracted a fair audience.

Mr. Mordant was the life of the nautical play, which would have been entertaining had he received the support he should have had. The specialty scenery shown in the first act was very pretty.

A trocadero peddler could make a mint of money if he would visit the circuit court room. The coughing of the people is so frequent and annoying that the attorneys are becoming very nervous on account of the frequent noisy interruptions.

GEORGE CRAWFORD, aged 35 years, died of typhoid fever on Webster street yesterday.

THE Methodist revival services at Zion were closed on Tuesday night. During the protracted meeting, which was conducted by Rev. Powell and Rev. Hillerby, there were 18 conversions and 20 admissions to the church.

There will be two nights of big fun at the opera house next week, when the Harry Webber "Nip and Tuck" combination will appear before the footlights.

Wednesday evening "Nip" will be given, and on Thursday night "Flint and Steel," will be given for the first time.

GEORGE CRAWFORD, aged 35 years, died of typhoid fever on Webster street yesterday.

An Acre of Land.

The following table, giving various di-visions of an acre of ground, will be found of great use to farmers and others, and may be referred upon as accurate.

There are 80 1/4 square yards in one rod, and 160 square yards to one acre. This gives 4,840 square yards to one acre.

60 rods wide by 93 rods long is 1 acre.

20 rods wide by 242 rods long is 1 acre.

40 rods wide by 121 rods long is 1 acre.

80 yards wide by 60 1/2 rods long is 1 acre.

Again, allowing 43,600 square feet to the acre, and we have another table:

110 feet by 360 feet = 1 acre.

220 feet by 138 feet = 1 acre.

440 feet by 90 feet = 1 acre.

A FORGONE HOPE.

Otto J. Dobsburg, proprietor Holland City News, Mich., writes: "A bad cold settled on my side and back, kidney trouble, liver and rheumatism combined; I suffered terribly, though was obliged to move about, and was bedridden. I tried local doctors, but received no relief, tried Electric Oil; have only had half a fifty cent bottle, and feel as well as I ever did in my life."

ANOTHER CANDIDATE.

Maj. Lewis Luddington, of Farmer City, DeWitt County, is being pushed by his friends as a candidate for member of the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, and his claims will be strongly urged. Maj. Luddington has been in the shipping business in Illinois for more than a quarter of a century, and has a knowledge that would eminently fit him for the office. He was a soldier in the late war, and two years ago represented this Senatorial District in the Legislature. As Central Illinois will be represented on the board, Maj. Luddington will probably stand a fair chance of receiving the appointment.

A QUIET WEDDING.

MARRIAGE OF MR. GEORGE STROHM AND MISS GUSSEY READ.

The marriage of Miss Gussey Read, late of Brookville, Ontario, and Mr. George W. Strohm, of Endicott, Nebraska, occurred last evening at 5 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hagerman, on Water street, in the presence of a few of the more intimate friends of the contracting parties. The Episcopal ceremony, which united the hearts and hands of the young couple for life, was spoken by Rev. C. B. Roberts, pastor of the Baptist church. The bride wore a handsome cashmere traveling suit, and after congratulations were extended, a tempting wedding supper, which had been prepared under the direction of the bride's sister, Mrs. Hagerman, was discussed by the company. The groom, as is well known, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Strohm, of this city. Since he retired from the grocery business in opera block, he has located permanently at Endicott, where he has engaged in the general merchandise and real estate business. Mr. and Mrs. Strohm departed for their new home in the west last evening, taking with them the warmest wishes of their friends for their future happiness and prosperity.
